DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 3 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The claims appear to recite part of the human body (teeth) in combination with the structure of the claimed invention, for example, "said connection portions are attached to a projection of the side of teeth" in claim 3. The specification states "the two connection portions are attached to the top of two healthy teeth adjoining the restoration tooth" (bottom of page 2). It has been held that a claim directed to or including within its scope, a human being will not be considered to be patentable subject matter under 35 USC 101. The grant of limited, but exclusive property right in a human being is prohibited by the Constitution. In re Wakefield, 422 F.2d 897, 164 USPQ 636 (CCPA 1970). Applicant needs to clearly state using inferential language that the human anatomy is not claimed. For examination purposes, the claims will be considered as if such limitations involving the combination with a human were not present.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 1, 3-5, 7, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification does not describe the claimed feature of "said connection portions extend horizontally along the entire side of the restoration tooth to which they extend from."

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claims 4 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear what is "a lateral connection portion" taking into account the connection portions as described in the independent claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 1, 3-5, 7, and 8 are rejected as understood, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hruska. Hruska discloses a detachable restoration tooth comprising a bottom provided with a cavity extending into the interior of the tooth, an outer surface having a boundary edge in relation to the bottom, a top having two boundary edges in relation to the outer surface, the top is provided with two connection portions, and each extending from one of the two boundary edges. Patentable weight is not given to the inferentially claimed elements;

however, it is noted that the bottom can accommodate a crown or abutment tooth. Hruska does not appear to show the connection portions extended horizontally along the entire side of the restoration tooth; however, it is not clear as to the orientation of the connection portions of the claimed invention from the disclosure; therefore it is assumed as understood that Hruska also shows the connection portions extend horizontally along the entire side of the restoration tooth, for example figure 7A. The connection portions are provided with a lateral connection portion. Hruska also shows restoration tooth having a bottom provided in one side thereof with a cavity and in other side with a protruded portion, for example figure 11.

Response to Arguments

9. Applicant's arguments filed October 12 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The prior art show the claimed limitations of the claims as understood. Applicant remarks that the feature of the connection portions extend horizontally along the entire side of the restoration tooth to which they extend from is illustrated in figure 14 (connection portion 44'); however, the cross-section A-A shows 44' extending vertically. The specification also does not describe the connection portion extending horizontally along the entire side of the restoration tooth.
